Meet just a few of our more than 500 contributors from Seattle and around the world.
What we do

Our mission is to elevate diverse voices through media.

We offer free and low cost trainings to help new writers tell the stories that matter to them.

In 2015 over one million people visited SeattleGlobalist.com. Fifty six percent of our readers are aged 18-34.

The Globalist was recognized as the best small daily publication in the Pacific Northwest by the Society of Professional Journalists in June 2016.

U.S. newsrooms are less than 13% staffed by people of color. Many groups - including immigrants, LGBTQ people, people with disabilities, youth and women - are severely underrepresented in the media.

The Seattle Globalist is working to change that.

Our more than 500 writers are 40% people of color and 20% foreign born. They are professional and citizen reporters, including development workers, community organizers, students, immigrants, refugees and artists.

Diverse media is better media.

Who we serve

U.S. newsrooms are less than 13% staffed by people of color. Many groups - including immigrants, LGBTQ people, people with disabilities, youth and women - are severely underrepresented in the media.

The Seattle Globalist is working to change that.

Our more than 500 writers are 40% people of color and 20% foreign born. They are professional and citizen reporters, including development workers, community organizers, students, immigrants, refugees and artists.

Diverse media is better media.

What you support

- Advanced youth apprenticeship program
- “Your City, Your Story, Your Voice”: community media workshops for all ages
- Summer journalism internship
- Globalist Youth Journalism Program for high school students
- Publishing hundreds of stories by diverse writers
- Syndicating stories to The Seattle Times, KUOW, South Seattle Emerald, International Examiner, Crosscut and others

Finances - 2015

Total Income $280,878
Total Expenses $312,661

Income
- Grants 9%
- Program Revenue 27%
- In-Kind from University of Washington 49%
- Individual Giving 33%

Expenses
- Programs 86%
- Admin 3%
- Fundraising 11%
- Fundraising 3%

Cover Photos: Top photo from “May Day marchers turn out in force to sway immigration reform.” Bottom photo from “Generation Putin: Young people and change in the Former Soviet Union.”
Our mission is to elevate diverse voices through media.

We offer free and low cost trainings to help new writers tell the stories that matter to them.

In 2015 over one million people visited SeattleGlobalist.com. Fifty-six percent of our readers are aged 18-34.

The Globalist was recognized as the best small daily publication in the Pacific Northwest by the Society of Professional Journalists in June 2016.

Cover Photos: Top photo from “May Day marchers turn out in force to sway immigration reform.” Bottom photo from “Generation Putin: Young people and change in the Former Soviet Union.”

U.S. newsrooms are less than 13% staffed by people of color. Many groups - including immigrants, LGBTQ people, people with disabilities, youth and women - are severely underrepresented in the media.

The Seattle Globalist is working to change that.

Our more than 500 writers are 40% people of color and 20% foreign born. They are professional and citizen reporters, including development workers, community organizers, students, immigrants, refugees and artists.

Diverse media is better media.
Meet just a few of our more than 500 contributors from Seattle and around the world.

Get in touch

Jessica Partnow
Executive Director
jessica@seattleglobalist.com

SeattleGlobalist.com

It's where Seattle... meets the World.